University of Botswana
Semester 1: late July to late November
Semester 2: early January to early May

LOCATION
The University of Botswana is located in the heart of Botswana’s capital city. The campus is within walking distance of government buildings, retail centers, night clubs, the national museum and the national soccer stadium. English is widely spoken in the country.

PROGRAM DETAILS
The program includes fall or spring options. All courses are taught in English and fields include African languages and literature, African studies, anthropology, archaeology, French, history, linguistics, media studies, Portuguese, theology and religious studies, biology, chemistry, computer science and information studies, geology, mathematics, physics, environmental science, computer science, economics, geography, political science, sociology, social work, women’s studies, business administration, education and health sciences.

CAMPUS LIFE
Students are housed in on-campus dorms with Botswana students. Students can participate in over 100 student clubs, and join team sports such as basketball, volleyball, track and soccer. Participation on sports teams often includes travel to other southern African countries.

The office of international education and partnerships arranges optional trips for students during holidays, such as outings to selected Botswana wildlife areas.
