Thammasat University
Semester 1: August to December
Semester 2: January to May

LOCATION
Thammasat University is a small campus that was formerly the viceroy’s palace grounds. It is located on the Chao Phraya River, near the center of the original Bangkok. The campus is close to some of Thailand’s most sacred temples, many government ministries, the Grand Palace, the National Theater and the National Museum.

PROGRAM DETAILS
The program includes fall or spring options. Courses taught in English are available in a variety of fields, including:

The Thai Studies Program—Provides an integrated and interdisciplinary program for Thai and foreign students. A wide range of courses on historical and present-day Thailand and its culture are available. Trips to artistic, ethnological, historical, political and religious sites are included. Thai for non-native speakers is included.

British and American Studies—Examines British and American society and culture, both past and present day. Includes courses from the faculty of liberal arts as well as other disciplines such as economics, politics, media studies and business.

Business Administration—Concentrates on accounting, finance, banking and marketing.

Thammasat’s Faculty of Economics—Combines a broad educational foundation with extensive preparation in the various aspects of economic theory and practice. Course work includes Thai/Asian and developing economies, economic theory, human resources, international/comparative, financial and quantitative economics as well as general Thai studies.

Journalism and Mass Communication—Courses in newspaper and print media, radio and television, film, advertising, public relations and mass communication management.

The Sirindhorn International Institute of Technology—Qualified students take courses in civil, electrical, industrial or mechanical engineering, environmental and information technology.

The Political Science Program in Politics and International Relations—Integrates theoretical approaches with case studies, current issues as well as practical skills. It also gives a priority to a diverse range of academic questions essential to the field of politics and international relations.

ACTIVITIES
There are many activities for students to take advantage of, both on- and off-campus. Examples include:

- Cultural Tour of Bangkok
- Grand Palace Excursion
- International Night
- Rice Harvest Festival
- Thai Cuisine Cooking Class
- Loy Krathong Festival
- Tea Ceremony
- Mangrove Excursion

FOR MORE INFORMATION CONTACT:
Center for International Education
StudyAbroad@bridgewater.edu | 540-828-8024 | bridgewater.edu