

Journeys

We're always on one. From the roads that bring us to campus, to the sidewalks that take us to the classroom and office, to the paths that lead us beyond these storied halls and into the "real world," we journey from one place to another every day in countless different ways.

Some journeys are comfortable and routine; others are fraught with anxiety and risk. But all are journeys because they move us – physically, intellectually, emotionally, spiritually – from one place to another.

As a college that seeks "to educate and develop the whole person," Bridgewater encourages us to be on journeys that matter, journeys that make a difference, journeys that never really end. For ultimately it is the journey, not the destination, that determines who we are and what difference we make.

So as you journey through this year at BC, may you choose the path that's right for you (even if less traveled than the one others are on). And if your journey ever leads by my office, know that the door is always open and the coffee is always fresh.

Wishing you peace,

Robbie
