Ernie Flory, the eagle, is dreaming of going to Bridgewater College someday.
Ernie loves to make friends and wonders what his fellow eagles will be like when he goes to college.
When Ernie gets an A on his history test, he is so excited. He knows good grades are important for going to college.
One year Ernie asks for a Bridgewater College t-shirt for Christmas. He wants to show everyone at school that BC is where he wants to go someday!
Someone from Bridgewater College comes to Ernie’s school to share stories and talk about the importance of a college education. Ernie says he will do his best so he can go to college too.
One fall Saturday Ernie gets to go to a BC football game with his mom and dad. He could not be happier! He loves wearing crimson and gold and cheering on the Eagles.
Ernie wants to spread his wings and explore the world. He discovers that when he is in college, he can go study in another country for a few months.
Ernie gets to visit BC and go on an official tour. He falls in love with the campus and the students. He can’t picture being anywhere else.
Ernie joins an international club because he wants to learn more about other countries. This will be something he can include on his application to Bridgewater!
Ernie plays high school football. He dreams of playing at college and hopes the fans will come to watch him play.
Ernie wants to volunteer and help out in his community. He asks friends and family to donate food to give to people who are hungry. He plans to continue helping the community when he is at Bridgewater.
Ernie studies hard for the big test he needs to take before going to college—the SAT. He is nervous about seeing his scores!
Ernie gets good scores on his test and finishes his application to BC. One day he gets a letter in the mail from Bridgewater College. When he opens it, he finds out he has been accepted! His dreams have come true.
